Training and Careers

On February 16, Christine Travers, Dean of IFP School, was interviewed by Laurent Labbé, host of the ChooseSocialTV program, dedicated to Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR).

After presenting IFP School and its mission, Christine explained how the energy transition has been gradually introduced into the School's training. She then encouraged young talents to join IFP School to become actors of the energy transition.

"There are companies that are seen as polluters (...). Join them, because with the toolbox you will have at the School, you will be able to propose solutions! (...) Apply to the School because you are the ones who are going to change the world now and be the actors of this energy transition. It is from the inside that we change," she insisted.

In 2022, IFP School ranked 4th in CSR among 200 engineering schools according to the 100% participatory and transparent HappyAtSchool® label.
