The Paris Air Show opens its doors this year from 17 to 23 June 2019, giving IFPEN the opportunity to present to the general public and professionals alike the achievements and outlook of the biofuels sector for the aeronautics industry.

Sustainable fuels for aeronautics are an alternative to fossil fuels, and currently represent an effective and suitable solution for meeting the challenge of reducing carbon emissions in this sector. To this end, IFPEN researchers will be on hand with our partners Safran, Air France and Air Transport Group (ATAG) at the Paris Airlab exhibition dedicated to innovation and foresight in the aerospace industry. Feel free to come and meet them.
